

Natural Colored Cotton Mulberry Silk Goose Down Quilt

Warm Experience of Blending Natural Colored Cotton and High Latitude White Goose Down

This product is carefully crafted using pure natural colored cotton interwoven with Tencel jacquard technology. Natural colored cotton is a colored cotton found in nature that requires no chemical treatment. The filling material is high latitude Siberian white goose down, ensuring no pollution and ensuring environmental protection and safety. Its unique three-layer design cleverly separates the silk layer and the down layer, combining the dual advantages to provide customers with a brand-new warm experience. The overall design aims to showcase the beauty of harmonious coexistence with nature, offering a soft, pure, and comfortable pleasure.

colored cotton

printing

Natural Beauty, Unique Charm

Explore the beauty of natural brown-colored cotton, born from the earth itself. Embracing an unadulterated dyeing process, it bestows harmonious hues to the skin, where colorful light gently caresses and soothes the soul. The brand's unique logo jacquard art presents an unparalleled and distinctive charm. Joining hands and blending in, seeking extraordinary fashion, and appreciating the wondrous beauty of the diverse world together.

Weaving Craft Unfolding the Gift of Nature

Pure natural weaving allows cottonseed shells to remain between yarn and fabric, embodying the essence of returning to simplicity and showcasing the beauty of the original ecology. The uniqueness of colored cotton is derived from its natural growth. The colors are gentle and naturally formed.

Dimensional Gentleness, Escorting Your Sleep

Gathering softness, composing an elegant symphony of silk and goose down. Adopting a unique three-layer structure, with separate layers for silk and down, it combines the warmth retention of goose down and the smoothness of silk. Using natural colored cotton, it fully complies with Class A infant standards, woven together with natural wood pulp fibers to create a nurturing haven of love. With its distinctive design and superior quality, it reflects the fragrance of refined living. Moreover, it advocates for environmental consciousness, promoting a serene and healthy home life.

Colored Organic Cotton: AnEco-Friendly Fashion Choice

Colored organic cotton is an eco-friendly fashion choice. Compared to traditional cotton, it requires no dyeing process, reducing the use of chemical dyes and water waste, thus lowering environmental pollution. Moreover, it minimizes energy consumption and carbon emissions. Opting for colored organic cotton products allows not only experiencing a variety of colors but also actively participating in environmental conservation, driving the fashion industry towards sustainability.

environmental pollution

dyeing
process

carbon emissions

water
waste

chemical dyes

