The Journey of SPIN

Foldable Vintage Bicycle Helmet

The journey of SPIN vintage bicycle helmets began with a passion for cycling but a dislike for traditional bicycle helmets, which were often heavy, uncomfortable, and bulky. Many casual cyclists in local neighborhoods opted not to wear helmets, either due to unfamiliarity or dissatisfaction with the available designs. As a result, some chose to forgo helmets altogether.

The founder of SPIN discovered vintage-style bicycle helmets online and was inspired to create a helmet that combined functionality with aesthetics. The goal was to design a lightweight, stylish, and contemporary helmet that provided safety benefits by reducing the severity of potential accidents. Additionally, the helmet needed to be foldable, easy to carry, and available in a variety of colors.

With this inspiration, the initial designs took shape. With the support of a team, friends, and advisors, the founder researched suitable materials and began production, initially crafting just two helmets. The early prototypes were lightweight but required refinements in fit, strap length, and overall shape to ensure a secure and comfortable fit for cyclists.
