Innovative Seamless Posture Correcting Back Support Undergarment

LUCKMEEY Seamless Posture Correcting Back Support Undergarment is an innovative piece designed to improve users' posture while providing seamless, three-dimensional support. The adjustable X-shaped cross-lifting posture correction strap and supportive gel-composite memory yarns gently pulls the shoulders back to help correct poor posture such as hunching and rounding, which offers painless shoulder opening when worn. The back design adopts a one-piece vest structure combined with seamless adhesive bonding technology, not only providing effective shaping but also offering an invisible, seamless effect. The seamless soft support technology provides shapely support, and there are two kinds of cup padding that enhance natural curves. Made from a matte high-elasticity fabric, it offers exceptional comfort when worn.

The Posture Correction Straps Paired With Memory Yarns Promote Effortless Good Posture

The undergarment features adjustable X-shaped cross-lift posture straps, utilizing an innovative linear adhesive bonding process designed to enhance shoulder posture and improve poor postures such as hunching and rounding of the back.

The straps are secured in the front, effectively pulling the shoulders back to help maintain correct sitting and standing positions. Its adjustable tension design allows users to modify the level of support according to their personal needs. By using supportive gel-composite memory yarns instead of traditional rigid supports, it provides a stable traction structure, achieving a pain-free shoulder opening effect and providing a comfortable wearing experience for users who need to wear it for extended periods.

Seamless Adhesive Design Offers Both Comfort And Support

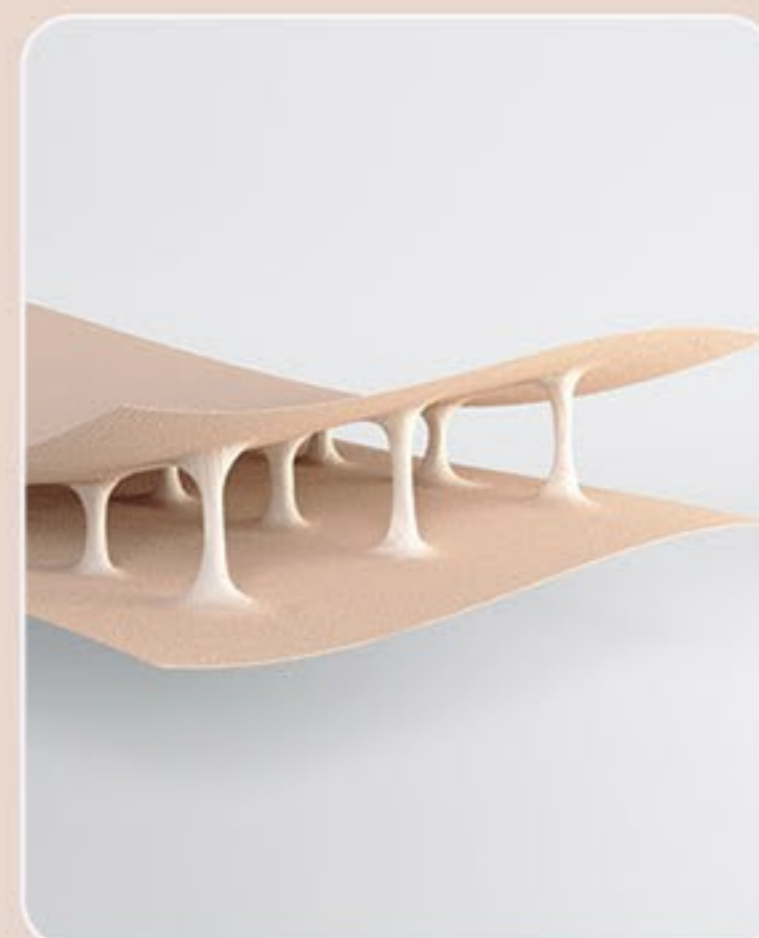

The seamless adhesive bonding and jelly-like soft support technology ensure that the undergarment provides both even support and comfortable breathability. The overall enveloping adhesive design features over 30,000 seamless bonding points, enhancing the stability of the undergarment while maintaining excellent resilience and preventing deformation, as well as minimizing bulges and sagging. The W-shaped jelly strips replace traditional underwire, ensuring effective support without adding pressure. The adjustable five-stage front closure design caters to individual preferences. The back features a one-piece vest structure, combining a 150g four-way stretch spandex fabric with perforated material to enhance breathability and avoid indentations, creating a seamless shaping effect.

Wide-set Cloud Cups Offer a Larger, More Natural Shape

As the trailblazing creator of the wide-set expansion bra category in China, this undergarment features a double-layer progressive 3D cloud wide-set cup design, suitable for women with A to C cups, providing a naturally enhancing effect. Unlike traditional bras, the double-layer design effectively gathers the breasts from the bottom to the top, creating a full curve for A cups and no overflow for C cups.

Users can choose between two different paddings: the lightweight 1.8 cm option for a natural chest shape, perfect for daily commuting, and the external cup 3.3 cm version for gathering the breasts, offering enhancement without exaggeration to meet various occasion needs. The 46 ° outward angle design enhances the naturalness of the enlargement effect while improving overall comfort.

Matte High-elasticity Fabric Ensures Greater Comfort When Worn

The undergarment features a casual cut design and is made from internationally renowned matte high-elasticity XIAOXING spandex yarn, providing enhanced comfort and colorfastness. The 20D ultra-fine yarn is composed of 24 small filaments, making it exceptionally delicate and soft, with high resilience and resistance to deformation. The 150g size-free four-way stretch fabric is lightweight yet strong, adapting to various body shapes and offering 2.8 times the stretchability to ensure wearing comfort.
